THE WORLD TODAY

- An estimated 4 million people die prematurely each year from household air pollution.

- Approximately 3 billion people still use polluting fuels like wood, coal, and charcoal.

- More than 143 million people could be displaced by 2050 due to the impacts of climate change.

THE INVESTMENT CASE

- Continuing to use solid fuels = $123 BILLION in annual costs, encompassing:
  - Health
  - Environmental
  - Economic

- Up to 150 million fewer people would go hungry if women farmers had the same access to resources as men.

SOLUTIONS

- Participation of girls and women in climate change mitigation and adaptation processes.

- Integration of environmental conservation strategies within girls’ and women’s health programming.

- Investment in technologies that enhance renewable and clean energy sources.

- Secure land rights and inheritance rights for women.

Girls and women bear the brunt of climate change, but they are the world’s best bet in the fight for a clean, healthy, and sustainable planet.

ASKS

Strengthen the participation of girls and women, including indigenous women, grassroots groups, and humanitarian responders, in climate change policymaking at all levels and in all capacities—adaptation, mitigation, and resource management.

Develop policies to address climate change that recognize gender-sensitive impacts, provide women with access to resources, and give them opportunities to participate in mitigation and adaptation processes.

Promote a gender responsive approach to climate financing.

Invest in technologies and initiatives to enhance sustainable and renewable energy sources that reflect women’s knowledge, needs, and roles, while incorporating indigenous expertise and traditional practices.

Integrate environmental conservation strategies within family planning and women’s health programming and vice versa.

RIPPLE EFFECT

- Improved nutrition
- Greater food security
- Enhanced environmental conservation
- More resilient communities
- Decreased poverty
